EAST CENTRAL COLLEGE

ONLINE TOOLS

Welcome to East Central College! While at East Central you will use a variety of technologies. Whether you need to log into a computer in a computer lab, your student email, eCentral to register for classes, or to connect your computer to the network. As a new ECC student, you now have access to many different online tools and services. We encourage you to explore them all; however, the following are the essential, first steps to start the process of becoming integrated with campus technology. These are the basic technological tools that you will want to set up, and make sure are working.

Activating your ECC ID/Password

- Your username and password are both extremely important parts of your identity at East Central. With them comes access to personal records and information such as your grades, course login, email, finances – pretty much everything. This is your identity and no one else's.

FalconMail

- FalconMail is the official East Central College email account for students. All official East Central communications are sent through your FalconMail account (username@student.eastcentral.edu). Information sent to this account includes: updates on financial aid and billing, academic progress, registration and other items of concern to students at East Central College. Additionally, instructors may use FalconMail to send class information. Be sure to check your email regularly.

eCentral

- eCentral/Self-Service acts as a secure online destination for all of your East Central College information. It's where you handle the "business" of attending East Central, such as reviewing records, registering for classes, updating personal info, creating your plan of study, reviewing financial aid, and more.

Moodle

- East Central's online learning management system, Moodle, is used to facilitate distance learning at the College. Online coursework is delivered via this system, allowing students and instructors to move beyond the physical limitations of the traditional classroom setting. Additionally, many classroom based East Central courses are supplemented with online course components provided through Moodle. The system utilizes a wide range of online communication, assessment, and multimedia tools to stimulate and enhance the traditional classroom environment.

Personal Devices

- Visit the Technology 101 webpage to learn how to join ECC Alert, setup WiFi, add your email to your phone, and more.

Please visit http://www.eastcentral.edu/campus-safety/technology-101 for detailed instructions on how to set up the above technology and more. If you have any questions, please contact the IT Helpdesk at: 636.584.6738.
